

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Division of Field Epidemiology

Atlanta, Georgia 30333

NOTICE OF FEDERAL AGENCY ACTION

Notice is hereby given that the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has received a request for information from the National Center for Human Genome Research (NCHGR) regarding the availability of the National Center for Human Genome Research (NCHGR) database of human genome sequences. The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public. The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public.

The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public. The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public.

The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public. The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public.

The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public. The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public.

The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public. The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public.

The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public. The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public.

The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public. The NCHGR database is a collection of human genome sequences that are available to the public.

U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE