1. RESEARCH DESIGN
The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The participants were 20 college students (10 males and 10 females) aged between 18 and 25 years. The participants were randomly assigned to two groups: the control group and the experimental group. The control group consisted of 10 participants, and the experimental group consisted of 10 participants. The control group was given a standard test, and the experimental group was given a modified test. The results of the control group were compared with the results of the experimental group. The data were analyzed using statistical methods. The results showed that the experimental group performed significantly better than the control group. The study was conducted over a period of 10 weeks. The participants were tested at the beginning and at the end of the 10-week period. The results of the control group were compared with the results of the experimental group. The data were analyzed using statistical methods. The results showed that the experimental group performed significantly better than the control group.
