A large, stylized, abstract drawing of a bird or wing, possibly a phoenix, with a circular stamp in the background. The drawing is done in black ink on lined paper. The bird/wing shape is elongated and curved, with a circular stamp visible in the upper right portion of the drawing. The stamp appears to be a circular postmark or seal, though the details are difficult to discern due to the high contrast and the drawing's style. The overall impression is that of a quick, expressive sketch.
