Robert H. Green	University of Michigan
Robert H. Hirschman	University of Southern California
Robert L. Katz	University of Texas at Austin

Editorial Staff

In response to the increasing interest in business ethics, the journal has positioned itself to reflect the diversity and breadth of research and theory dealing with business ethics, and to stimulate the growth of scholarship in this area. In addition to articles on topics such as corporate social responsibility, the journal also aims to encourage the development of new approaches and perspectives on business ethics, and to stimulate the exchange of ideas among scholars and practitioners. The journal is committed to publishing high quality research that is both theoretical and practical, and to providing a forum for the discussion of issues related to business ethics.

Editorial Policies

The journal is interested in papers that address business ethics from a variety of perspectives, including moral philosophy, social theory, and empirical research. The journal also welcomes papers that address specific issues in business ethics, such as corporate social responsibility, environmentalism, and the treatment of workers and consumers. The journal is particularly interested in papers that address the relationship between business ethics and other fields of study, such as law, accounting, and marketing. The journal also encourages the submission of papers that address the practical application of business ethics principles.

Editorial Team

The editorial team is composed of a group of scholars from various disciplines who are interested in business ethics. The team includes scholars from the United States, Canada, and Europe, and represents a wide range of perspectives on business ethics.
