

Figure 1. The proposed model for the relationship between the perceived organizational support and the organizational commitment. The model shows that perceived organizational support leads to organizational commitment, which in turn leads to organizational citizenship behavior. The model also shows that perceived organizational support leads to organizational citizenship behavior, and that organizational commitment mediates the relationship between perceived organizational support and organizational citizenship behavior.