

DECLARATION OF THE PRINCIPLES OF THE UNITED NATIONS

We the peoples of the United Nations, determined to live in peace with one another and to form a more perfect union, to establish a more secure world, to practice tolerance and to live together in friendship with neighbouring peoples, to accept as our duty the maintenance of international peace and security, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, and to reaffirm our faith in the principles of the Charter of the United Nations,

Article 1

The purpose of the United Nations is to maintain international peace and security, to develop friendly relations among nations, to achieve international co-operation, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to co-operate in the maintenance of international peace and security, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

We the peoples of the United Nations, determined to live in peace with one another and to form a more perfect union, to establish a more secure world, to practice tolerance and to live together in friendship with neighbouring peoples, to accept as our duty the maintenance of international peace and security, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion, and to reaffirm our faith in the principles of the Charter of the United Nations,

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to co-operate in the maintenance of international peace and security, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to co-operate in the maintenance of international peace and security, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to co-operate in the maintenance of international peace and security, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to co-operate in the maintenance of international peace and security, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all.

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

Article 2

The Organization is based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all its Members.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to co-operate in the maintenance of international peace and security, and to promote and encourage human rights and fundamental freedoms for all.

To this end the Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

The Members of the United Nations agree to accept the obligations which are incumbent upon them under the Charter of the United Nations and to fulfil those obligations.

