

[illegible]

© 2000 Blackwell Science Ltd Journal of Internal Medicine 247: 399–406

INTERVIEW: How is it possible that we cannot agree on an ethical standard for the use of genetic data? I think the answer is in part due to the fact that, although we agree that we should not use genetic data for anything but the good of the individual, we do not agree on what that good is.

CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF LANGUAGE ACQUISITION
UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT AUSTIN
78712-7750
(512) 495-5700

Page 87 of 116